

The British Husband

(The Wedding We Were Waiting For)

By Mart Atanassov

Rudolf Steiner offered much help in understanding that the western occult driving forces within the twentieth century evolution need to be perceived in an unprejudiced way even where they appear in the most dreadful distortions and perversions, such as the one that is happening today between Eastern and Western Europe. This is the marriage between the East and the West, that is supposed to leave out anything that (according to Anthroposophy) Central Europe may have to offer, despite the fact that “it was necessary for the element that is to be found in the life of the spirit in Central Europe to enter into a form of marriage with the element that comes from the natural traits of the Russian people. The fruits that can be generated through the special nature, of the life in the spirit in Central Europe need to work together with the receptivity that is possible thanks to those purely natural characteristics of people in the East of Europe.” (Rudolf Steiner, GA 174A, 18 March 1916)

To all appearances, however, the East European and especially the Russian “menu” to-day is written in English instead of German. Elton John, or Boy George, instead of Mendelssohn! The western occult-masonic elite for a long time has had a different perception, namely that Eastern Slavic Europe is destined to develop something that is organised by elements that arise from the Anglo-Saxon culture and guided in a direction where the Russian soul elements can marry with the Anglo-Saxon soul elements.

“Things have to be organised in such a way that the fifth post-Atlantean civilisation has an Anglo-Saxon physiognomy. This calls for a kind of marriage between Western and Eastern Europe, leaving out anything that Central Europe may have to offer”. (Ibid)

Clearly, this would not be an absolutely good marriage but something which leads to the opposite pole - an unlawful thing that during the coming decades is to sink completely into the British materialistic swamp. The downward trend comes of its own accord where everything has been turned upside down intending to achieve the control of the East through the means of occult power provided by the British. (The use of the term ‘British’ is being used here, owing to the birth of Anglo-Saxon occult brotherhoods based on modern Freemasonry established in England in 1717, though it should be considered to also include the occult brotherhoods in America). The ultimate goal striven for is to establish “a caste of masters in the West and a caste of economic slaves in the East, beginning with the Rhine and extending eastward all the way into Asia. This does not mean a caste of slaves in the ancient Greek sense, but a caste of economic slaves organised in a socialistic way to take up all sorts of impossibilities in the social structure that then shall not be applied among the English-speaking peoples. The essence of the matter is to make the English-speaking peoples into a population of masters of the world.” (R. Steiner, GA 186, 01 Dec 1918)

This is quite something that also must be taken into consideration. However, this is not the time to enlarge upon the topic. Suffice to say that in the future any inhabitant of Eastern Europe who in full consciousness becomes partner of the West, does so unlawfully. Such a false development, done unconsciously today, has been chosen by many peoples such as Ukraine who recently claims to be the party of the “old good West”, and not of her native Eastern mother anymore. We must bear in mind that such marriages are in the first instance in the embryonic stage, but their appearance is not transient. They are held in accordance with a unique British occult teaching at the end of the 19th century, which was and obviously still is “buried deeply in the teachings of western Freemasonry...” (R. Steiner, GA 173, 17 Dec 1916). In the same lecture Steiner said that since 1917 the English-speaking people of freemason occult lodges consider themselves Guardians for the Russians, or “at the moment when these peoples will have reached a point when the Russian Empire no longer exists and they have succeeded in creating their own forms out of their own dawning intelligence. But gradually the wet nurse must be replaced by the Guardian. This means that in the West a kind of papacy must develop out of those who form the Fifth sub-race. For this, a strong spirituality must develop and, just as the Papacy stood in relation to Central Europe, so a configuration will have to come about which works comprehensively from the West over towards the East. This must result in the East being used as a place where certain institutions can be created in a manner similar to that in which the Papacy created its institutions in Europe.” (Ibid)

The Russian Empire was doomed to destruction by British occultism which, as strange as it may seem, and since that moment it considers itself Guardian of the Russian population! Since 1917 it feels itself responsible for any further East European and especially, Russian development, initially instituting in Russia a temporary form of economic society of a socialistic nature.

“The Papacy created churches and religious communities of all sorts. But now the western “papacy”, which is to develop out of the British element, will have the task of carrying out certain quite definite economic experiments, that is, of instituting a certain form of economic society of a socialistic nature which, it is assumed, cannot be founded in the West because there the Fifth and not the Sixth sub-race has its being. The East, experimentally at first, must be used for such experiments for the future. Political, cultural and economic experiments must be carried out.” (Ibid)

The similarity of the two British characters: the Guardian and the Husband, demands that we read between these functions, reducing them to one and the same thing - the West-East unlawful marriage pointed to by Steiner. He also noted something else which allows us to connect this marriage to the current British-Russian war in Ukraine. It is worth citing verbatim:

“If impulses for strong and effective action are lacking, then the East and the West will come together above the head of Middle Europe—come together, to begin with probably in TERRIBLE ENMITY but finally in an impulse which truly cannot be for the well-being of Middle Europe. This impulse will then grow into a world culture, a world-civilisation.” (R. Steiner, GA 203, 09 Jan 1921)

It can be asserted from interpreting these texts that the aim of the Anglo-Saxon part of the world is still the same - to further its global dominance over the East and the Earth as a whole till the end of the world at all costs! The terrible enmity between the East (Russia) and the West (the Anglo-Saxon part of the world) is evident today in the Russo-British war in Ukraine after which Russia is to be completely deprived of independence once and for all in the same way it already happened with all the other Eastern European countries within the EU.

Regardless of the price to be paid, Britain in particular is entirely convinced to take Russia for its bride. British (occult) interest is proceeding from West to East in accordance with this actual idea being possible because of the fact that, firstly, any strong and effective action or reaction by Middle Europe is entirely lacking. The spiritual crisis of the General Anthroposophical Society in particular is the decisive point of it all, but the truth is that the current anthroposophical leadership are asleep through the most important 'marriage' event. It does not notice, or does not want to notice, what is actually happening in Eastern Europe where apparently the terrible pre-marriage enmity in question is taking place. It is willing to talk about abstractions like "There should be peace" taking sides with Ukraine (fig. 1).

This leads to the utter extermination of any possibility of a Russian-German marriage! Instead, Russia and Britain will marry in the way predicted by Steiner. Russia will have the unlawful British husband who (by careful orchestration) maimed the lawful German suitor with World War I, crippled him through the Treaty of Versailles, and then finally destroyed him with World War II. Additionally, the Anglo groom, helped orchestrate and fund the Russian October 1917 Revolution, another social catastrophe that ruined Eastern Europe. Now he is targeting Russia once again, looking for a marriage which can never be intelligible until one realises the essence of the marriage: the current "Russo-British" war that is taking place in the most western areas of the Old Russia (Ukraine). It can be understood only in the light of Rudolf Steiner's indications.

Returning focus to the war

The most outstanding characteristic of Russians to-day is that they are being duped right to the last moment in the Anglo-Saxon “Donbas-Luhansk” game, depriving them of the ability to prepare in Kursk. Everything is going according to an Anglo-Saxon plan: while Russia is gaining territory in the Donbas-Luhansk region, the Anglo-Americans forces in Ukraine strategically attack Kursk. Thus, it would be difficult for Russia to keep the gains in the Donbas and Luhansk and at the same time push Ukrainians away from Kursk. Doing both at the same time is hardly possible if the Anglo-Americans start destroying Russian logistics with long-range missiles, waiting for Russia to get weaker and weaker.

The main objective now is to inflict significant damage on Russian war capabilities. This is why what the Westerners need is to have long-range capability not only on the territory of Ukraine, but also on Russian territory, hoping that Russian attempts to draw red lines will not work. This is the Anglo-Saxon victory “Kursk” plan that is a part of a wider operation. It is part of the Russo-Ukrainian proxy war, an existential struggle for survival in which the West is taking any steps necessary to win. We can already hear the repeating calls to allow Ukraine to use Western missiles for strikes on targets deeper inside the Russian territory. Hindering Russian military supply lines would crucially reduce Russian’s possibilities to win the war. Such missiles have a range of about 400 miles while Moscow lies about 300 miles from Ukraine’s border. A series of such strikes, for example, targeting Russian airfields would be most militarily advantageous. In the name of Ukraine’s “clear right of self-defence”, the war is being redirected here. The West is pulling together its Ukrainian operational reserve committed already to the Kursk axis. The West stretches the front line, trying to find weak points in the Russian defence and attacking in places where no-one expects them. This must provoke transfer of Russian troops from those directions where they seem to achieve success. Thus Russians seems to be trapped on Donbas and Luhansk, despite the fact that they have won there. In fact, the Western army is strategically advancing in Kursk while TACTICALLY RETREATING from Donbas. It seems all happening the way that it was intended to be. The attack into Kursk seems planned in advance, only now gaining the initiative on the battlefield. It is a restart of the war. On the tactical level, the Western army is trying to tie down the Russians along the southern front, wherever possible, thus, the eastern front risks becoming for Russia a trap or just a preamble to a defeat on Russian soil. For many that seems unthinkable, but the Kursk offensive could become the catalytic event of Russia’s defeat, a development that could prove fatal for the future of Russia.

The defeat of the Russian Federation can be accomplished with all possible western strategic weapons combined with additional economic, media and political pressure. The Kursk operation seems the first step now, taken on Russian soil, bringing and escalating the war there. Russia reacts by using the red lines, but many of these lines have been crossed without major repercussions. Red lines set by Russia do not affect West member-state decisions concerning Ukraine. The West employs the tactic of media noise in the form of public debates involving numerous parties, countries and institutions at the European Parliament, before certain steps are taken to cross a Russian red line. The latter have effectively been diluted without a significant reaction.

The British Husband, or How To Have A Wedding In Military Uniform

The unlawful British-Russian marriage seems inevitable! If this happens, for the groom the question may arise as to how the world situation could be channeled in the direction where the newly conquered East European (Slavic) Bride could be fully united and brought together with him, the British groom, above the head of Middle Europe. Or, how can this new marriage grow into a “world culture, a world-civilisation”, as mentioned above by Steiner? Clearly, this may happen on his third try after the two previous ones (in the cultural sphere) were unsuccessful: these were, first, the marriage with Helena Blavatsky’s Theosophy movement during the second half of the 19th century and, secondly, the marriage with the Roerich family movement during the first half of the 20th century.

To all appearances, the third attempt is to take place at the European Union, the political, economic and cultural association of European countries, a unit with internal life and common affairs. It is expanding to the East despite the departure of Britain in 2020 and today it has 27 member states, almost half of which are East European. This is where the inherent qualities of Eastern Europe can be overshadowed and subdued by the Husband. After a defeat of Russia, the European Union would quickly go further and offer a clear pathway towards accession and thus Russia will be able to fulfill the provisions for membership. This would be a key moment of Britain’s long-term effort to conquer Russia. They are to come together (“to begin with probably in terrible enmity”) when Russians will agree on the common transatlantic vision in the post-war reality. The British husband will find many ways to continue engaging with the Russians in all spheres along the will to "rain down onto [the rest of] humanity the death and the sickness of culture" (R. Steiner, GA 194, 25 Dec 1919) This concerns even not the souls but the bodies of the Slavish-speaking peoples because "a mastery will be established over the Eastern lands, and marriages will be brought about between people of the West and people of the East." (R. Steiner, GA 186, 1 Dec 1918)

The destruction of Russia and Eastern Europe as a whole is carefully prepared. The Anglo-Saxon core mission is to win East European affection with a view to marriage. This more and more comes to light from the very beginning of the conflict in Ukraine in 2014 which is a war between the British groom and his "beloved" Russian bride. The British-Russian marriage, which troubled Rudolf Steiner so much, seems inevitable above the head of Middle Europe and in particular above the heads of Rudolf Steiner's anthroposophists that slept through the event of the Maidan coup in Kiev, 2014. These people are still sleeping today. The world, however, has entered phase zero of Anthroposophy and Christianity and they are less and less recognised in the sphere of outer reality. In regard to Middle Europe (Germany) this is the beginning of a process of being constantly out-voted and exploited.

Western victory in the current Russo-British war in Ukraine is fundamental to the future of the British Husband. The western secret societies had wanted this war to take place, and had manipulated events to bring it about. Ultimately, it will be a necessary condition for effective future one-world global society strategy that would provide perspective for (the Anti-Christ) Ahriman to incarnate on Earth. Their aim was to extend Anglo-Saxon influence across the planet, and to ensure the predomination of Ahriman culture. This is clearly indicated in Vladimir Solovyov's "Short Story of the Antichrist" where he appears as the president of the "United States of Europe". This brings the question, if the culture of Eastern Europe will one day reach the stage of development that is appropriate to it and to the world as a whole - will it appear as a civilisation soaring above man, setting forth a kind of a new, progressive group-soul life, or instead be developed by external domination of the British Husband rather than forces that are due to no effort or merit of one's own? If nothing but these impulses work in the world then the entire civilised world will certainly have the Anglo-Saxon physiognomy Rudolf Steiner speaks about and as result of the British-Russian secular unlawful union humanity will inevitably sink into the British materialistic swamp. If so, there will be no longer be such a thing as independent European states, unless it is in the far East of Russia where "in small colonies, as from seeds, the new life of the future will be formed". (R. Steiner, GA 93A, 31 Oct 1905)

This is a perspective which must set free the Eastern nightmare counter force in order that at least the peoples of the East may awaken to a conscious and adequate image of man. The rest of the world will be covered by the network of egotistic evil of the British husband. East Europeans, however, have to be shaken into awareness, in order to gain knowledge of his reality. These will be advanced individuals from both West and East who are ahead of their fellows and may receive the impulses for this.

The British husband is manifesting himself today with ever greater clarity. After the fall of the “Iron Curtain” set by the West shortly after World War II he promised a democratic world in which people can live in comfort and prosperity but instead there has been relatively few in-depth changes. Ultimately, now we have the current preparations for an unlawful Russo-British marriage, an event that will constitute a decisive turning point in the process of overcoming the world order established by Britain after the end of the Battle in Heaven in 1879. At that time one could perceive “the spirit of Michael and in his retinue a certain number of Russian souls, fighting for the purity of the spiritual horizon! We see them in fierce battle with the souls coming from the West and bringing strongly imprinted fantastic images into the spiritual world.” (R. Steiner, GA 174 A, December 3, 1914)

Today, we see down on Earth the results of the Battle in Heaven! The British husband is proceeding from the West to the East dressed in his full military attire. He is joined by many other advancing to the East forces - all those West, Middle and East European EU countries who in most cases unwillingly already married him. Among them is the representative part of the remaining on Earth the anthroposophists and many related institutions such as the Goetheanum, Demeter, Weleda, Waldorf and Christian Community who are supporting the West in all his doings. There is not even one of them who dares to write their honest opinions.

Steiner, however, also argued: “The British-American impulse toward world empire that is in process of preparation and is active in the present epoch, manifests itself as a NIGHTMARE, as the counter force of a nightmare in order that the peoples of the East may awaken to a conscious and adequate image of man. (R. Steiner, GA 186, 29 Nov 1918)

Therefore in the future, for the inhabitants of the East, the West should appear as something to feel intense dislike. Easterners must become persons who greatly dislike the West and such feeling during the coming days seems to be the key to their success. Today, the British groom is here “marring” the last and ultimate marriage partner of his choice. Since 1879, however, he proved to be spiritually dead! The Good Old Western Being is dead! The West has become nothing more than an apparatus for the suppression of true freedom by means of the slogans “human rights”, “freedom” and “democracy”. The transformation of the western soul and body can (at the risk of considerable simplification, it is true) be seen as an instance of the process of declination of the whole planet that will deepen in the future. In the past, there was a tyranny in that certain people were obliged for a time to believe that only what Rome recognised was true,

“...the tyranny will be much greater when the time will come when not what the philosopher decides, not what the scientist decides, will be the basis of faith, but what the organs of those occult brotherhoods will allow to be believed (die Organe jener okkulten Bruderschaften zu glauben erlauben werden) that in no man's soul anything else will be believed than what is prescribed to be believed from that side, that from no side other usages will be introduced into the world than what is prescribed from that side. This is what those brotherhoods strive for.” (R. Steiner, GA 173C, 22 Jan 1917)

Today, “the West” and “Tyranny” are already one and the same thing. The downward trend comes of its own accord, and it is no accident that in all Slavic languages the word “decline” is translated as “west”. The key here is to let people know this in relation to the current East-West wedding preparations. We have to see and recognise them - first, the possibility for such marriage since the last third of the nineteenth century, and secondly the fierce spiritual battle that is still running between them today. The West is not intended to serve the progress of humanity anymore but is to extend its control over the Slavonic development into the distant future in the form of marriage, or guardianship. This is the ultimate aim and the only means for the West and its occult establishment to survive.

Spiritually, the East is still fighting against the West. It is still bearing within it, undiminished, its task for the future and it is preparing to rise out of the ashes of the West. The East-West marriage as intended by the British husband will last no longer than one day. The counter force of the East European nightmare is here in order that the individual may awaken and come expressly to a proper understanding! We must be shaken into awareness, in order to gain knowledge of the Anglo-Saxon forces in their reality. This is why in our daily consciousness the counter force of the nightmare should appear as.... animosity and repulsion for the West, which must be present in every striving Eastern soul until in the East in small colonies, as from seeds, the new life of the future will be formed - in each of us who already live in Eastern Europe today and for all those who will come and join us in Eastern Europe in the future.

The West is to be kept back!
